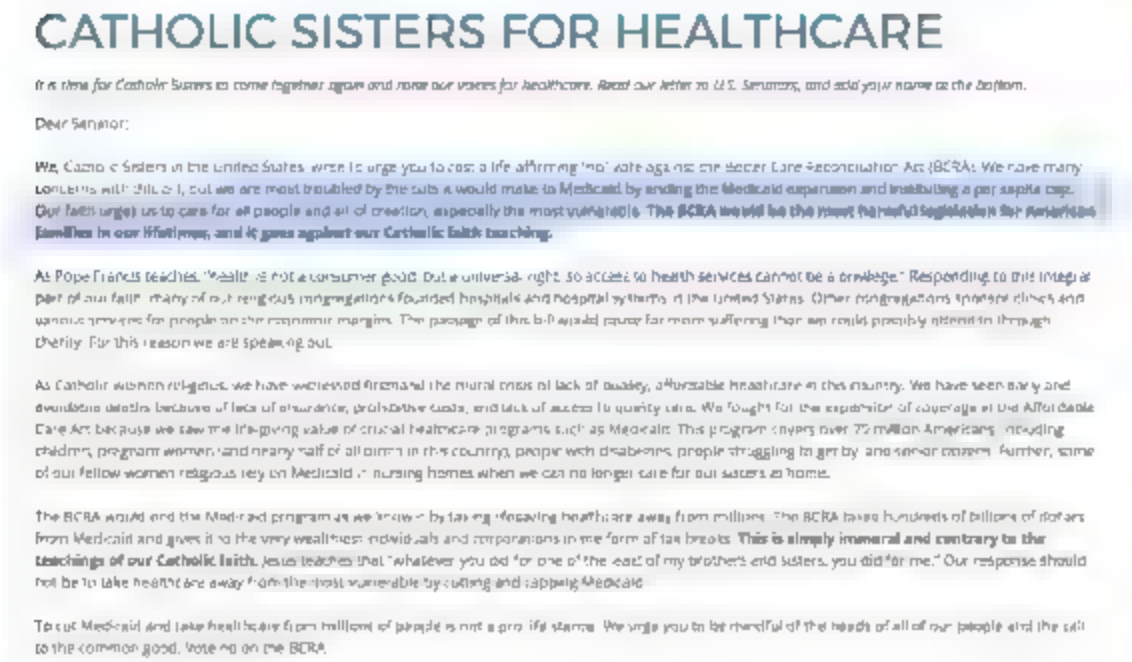
BREAKING: Catholic nuns urge senators #VoteNo on health care repeal; say it violates Catholic teaching. 7K+ signers! networklobby.org/sistersletter2…



CATHOLIC SISTERS FOR HEALTHCARE

It is time for Catholic Sisters to come together, agree and raise our voices for healthcare. Read our letter to U.S. Senators, and add your name to the bottom.

Dear Senator:

We, Catholic Sisters in the United States, write to urge you to cast a life affirming 'no' vote against the Better Care Reconciliation Act (BCRA). We have many concerns with the BCRA, but we are most troubled by the cuts it would make to Medicaid by ending the Medicaid expansion and instituting a per capita cap. Our faith urges us to care for all people and all of creation, especially the most vulnerable. The BCRA would be the most harmful legislation for Americans families in our lifetimes, and it goes against our Catholic faith teaching.

As Pope Francis teaches, "health is not a consumer good. But a universal right to access to health services cannot be a privilege." Responding to this integral part of our faith, many of our religious congregations founded hospitals and hospital systems in the United States. Other congregations operate clinics and various services for people on the economic margins. The passage of this bill would cause far more suffering than we could possibly attend to through charity. For this reason we are speaking out.

As Catholic women religious, we have witnessed firsthand the moral crisis of lack of quality, affordable healthcare in this country. We have seen early and avoidable deaths because of lack of insurance, prohibitive costs, and lack of access to quality care. We fought for the expansion of coverage in the Affordable Care Act because we saw the life-giving value of crucial healthcare programs such as Medicaid. This program covers over 70 million Americans, including children, pregnant women, and nearly half of all births in this country; people with disabilities; people struggling to get by; and senior citizens. Further, some of our fellow women religious rely on Medicaid in nursing homes when we can no longer care for our sisters at home.

The BCRA would end the Medicaid program as we know it by taking lifesaving healthcare away from millions. The BCRA takes hundreds of billions of dollars from Medicaid and gives it to the very wealthiest individuals and corporations in the form of tax breaks. This is simply immoral and contrary to the teachings of our Catholic faith. Jesus teaches that "whatever you did for one of the least of my brothers and sisters, you did for me." Our response should not be to take healthcare away from the most vulnerable by cutting and capping Medicaid.

To cut Medicaid and take healthcare from millions of people is not a pro-life stance. We urge you to be merciful of the needs of all of our people and the call to the common good. Vote no on the BCRA.

The "haves" care not for the "have nots." Rs want tax breaks for the wealthy and wage war against anything they see as an entitlement.

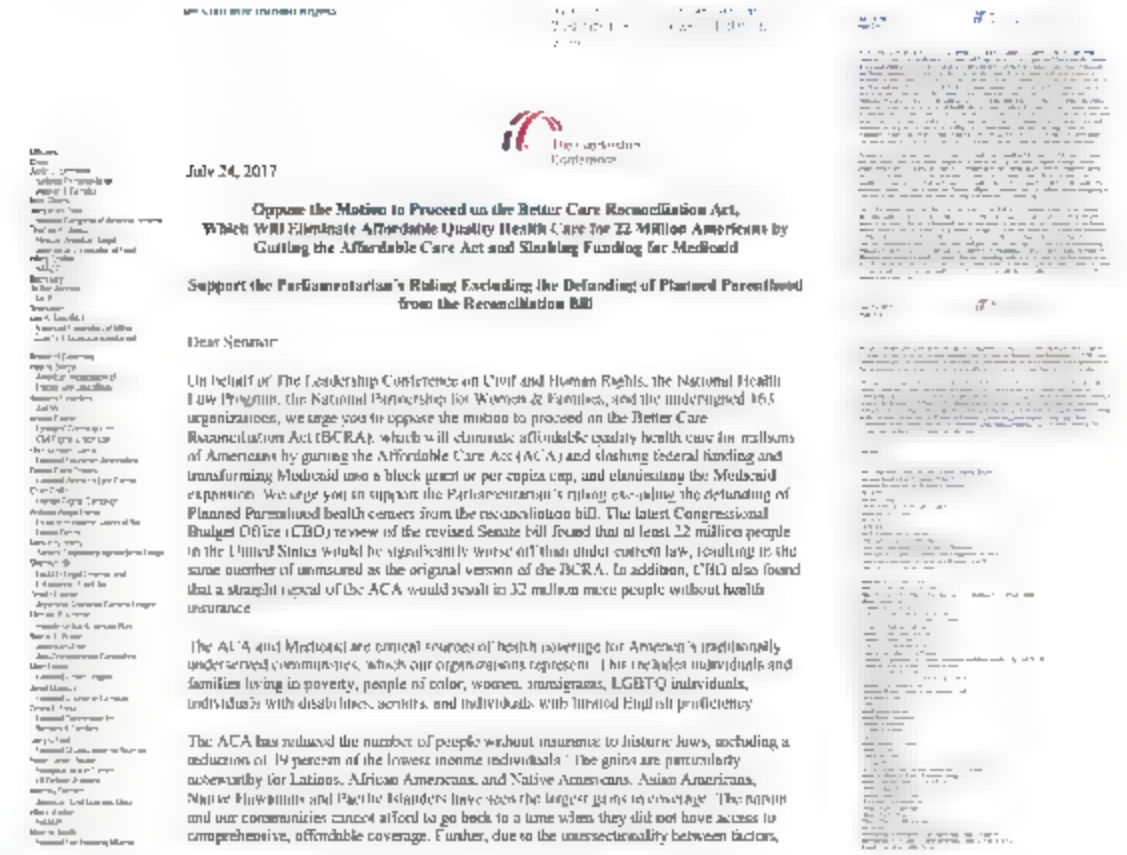
BREAKING: 166 groups just sent a letter urging senators to reject stripping health care from millions of Americans. bit.ly/2uRQJ4h



July 24, 2017

Oppose the Motion to Proceed on the Better Care Reconciliation Act, Which Will Eliminate Affordable Quality Health Care for 22 Million Americans by Gutting the Affordable Care Act and Slashing Funding for Medicaid

Support the Parliamentarian's Ruling Excluding the Defunding of Planned Parenthood from the Reconciliation Bill

Dear Senator:

On behalf of The Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights, the National Health Law Program, the National Partnership for Women & Families, and the undersigned 165 organizations, we urge you to oppose the motion to proceed on the Better Care Reconciliation Act (BCRA), which will eliminate affordable quality health care for millions of Americans by gutting the Affordable Care Act (ACA) and slashing federal funding and transforming Medicaid into a block grant or per capita cap, and simultaneously the Medicaid expansion. We urge you to support the Parliamentarian's ruling excluding the defunding of Planned Parenthood health centers from the reconciliation bill. The latest Congressional Budget Office (CBO) review of the revised Senate bill found that at least 22 million people in the United States would be significantly worse off than under current law, resulting in the same number of uninsured as the original version of the BCRA. In addition, CBO also found that a straight repeal of the ACA would result in 32 million more people without health insurance.

The ACA and Medicaid are critical sources of health coverage for America's traditionally underserved communities, which our organizations represent. This includes individuals and families living in poverty, people of color, women, immigrants, LGBTQ individuals, individuals with disabilities, seniors, and individuals with limited English proficiency.

The ACA has reduced the number of people without insurance to historic lows, including a reduction of 19 percent of the lowest income individuals.[1] The gains are particularly noteworthy for Latinos, African Americans, and Native Americans. Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians and Pacific Islanders have seen the largest gains in coverage. The nation and our communities cannot afford to go back to a time when they did not have access to comprehensive, affordable coverage. Further, due to the intersectionality between factors,

If you're in DC: as well as protesting, pick up a Senate gallery pass from Schumer's office in Hart 322 and watch the vote at 2:15pm.

U.S. Senate Gallery Pass Information
Week of July 24th-25th

To watch the Senate floor, please pick up gallery passes from Leader Schumer's office in Hart 322 (directions below) before heading to the Capitol.
Gallery passes may be picked up 9AM-5PM on Monday and 9AM-the vote on Tuesday

Passes are good until the end of 2019 but can only be used once. If you plan on going to the Senate Gallery more than once this week, please pick up multiple passes.
You will not be able to bring food, water, or any other prohibited items into the Capitol building. Please see the full list here (https://www.visitthecapitol.gov/plan-visit/prohibited-items). Additionally, please note that cameras and strollers will not be allowed into the gallery.

Directions:

Senator Schumer's office is located in room 322 Hart Senate Office Building. The visitors' entrance is located on Constitution Avenue in between First and Second Street. Once you have entered the building head to the third floor, room 322. (202-224-6542)

Visitors with Gallery Passes may enter the Capitol Building through the CVC entrance which is on First Street. (From Hart, walk straight down First Street toward the Capitol, away from Union Station). At the corner of First & East Capitol Street, follow the signs for the Capitol Visitor's Center.

You will need a gallery pass to gain entrance to the Capitol Building.

Before 11PM: If the Senate is in session, visitors with gallery passes should enter the Capitol Building through the CVC and go through security. Capitol Police, and Doorkeepers will direct you to elevators that take you to the third floor and the Senate Gallery.

Hello.

You are receiving this message because you posted in defense of Donald Trump. I no longer provide individual responses on this matter. It has been my experience that Trump supporters are universally incapable of accepting verifiable truths about him and, by extension, themselves, thus rendering discussion pointless and, therefore, a waste of time.

I wish you all the best in your ongoing battle with reality.

Quite a major generational & cultural divide in how the media covered that McCain speech. 53eig.ht/2vGy60S

NATE SILVER 3:40 PM

McCain Punditry Mini-Rant

Part of why McCain does what he does: There's a generational and philosophical divide in how he's covered by the press.

Among younger and less traditional reporters on Twitter — especially on the left but by no means exclusively so — a lot of people are pointing out McCain's inconsistency in scolding McConnell's process but nevertheless voting for the motion to proceed.

On CNN, however, the commentary about McCain's speech was glowing. And the commentary has also been very warm in Twitter comments we've seen from older reporters at the major news networks and at newspapers like The Washington Post.

Longtime readers of FiveThirtyEight know that I have a lot of beefs with the establishment media. Moments like these, where they elevate style over substance, are a big part of why.

Remember, McConnell has 0 margin for error, so if McCain lives up to his words on the underlying legislation, it's dead. But that's an "if"

Lisa Murkowski, profile in courage. A grateful nation must thank her today. She needs to feel your support.
adn.com/politics/2017/ ...

"I voted no on the motion to proceed today because I didn't think that we were ready for the debate. And I have said pretty consistently that process really does matter, particularly when you're dealing with something that is as direct and personal as health care, something that has an impact on one-sixth of the nation's economy," Murkowski said in an interview Tuesday evening after the vote. "This is big, and then you throw in major Medicaid reform on top of that," she said.

Murkowski argued that revisions to the Affordable Care Act, often called "Obamacare," are necessary, but that the Senate process has not been conducive to crafting good policy, "enduring policy."

I voted to allow debate today because we can no longer subject Coloradans to a failing healthcare system without working toward solutions.

> "Under Obamacare, Coloradans have had to pay for double digit premium increases year after year and the 27 percent average increase for premiums on the individual market next year is only more of the same. While 500,000 Coloradans have had their plans cancelled, 145,000 Coloradans were forced to pay a penalty under Obamacare instead of purchasing insurance because their options have become so limited and unaffordable. In every healthcare meeting with Coloradans, we discuss the problems of Obamacare and how the status quo is simply unacceptable.

The bill the Senate is voting on today would produce an actual death spiral with guaranteed insurance, no mandate, and no subsidies.

A “skinny repeal” bill that repeals the individual mandate but retains premium subsidies might result in premium hikes of only 20%.

Premium subsidies would protect those eligible with “skinny repeal,” but those paying full freight get hosed. Not quite a death spiral.

Of course, if “skinny repeal” is just an effort to get to a conference committee, who knows what ultimately comes out of that process.

5 13 16

Larry Levitt @larry_levitt · 2 h
If "skinny repeal" actually became law, would Republicans support stabilization funding to avoid premium hikes and a CSR appropriation?

Jared urged Trump to fire Comey; now Jared is pushing for Sessions' ouster. Gee, why would Jared want these officials out?

already done so. But his anger was deep, they added, and nothing was certain when it came to the volatile president.

Among those urging Mr. Trump to spare Mr. Sessions have been Reince Priebus, the White House chief of staff; Stephen K. Bannon, the president's chief strategist; and Donald F. McGahn II, the White House counsel, according to officials who asked not to be named describing internal deliberations. Sharing the president's frustration have been people in his family, some of whom have come under scrutiny in the Russia investigation.

For the White House, the attacks on the attorney general have touched off a serious problem on Capitol Hill when it did not need any others. Senate

If you're just waking up, incredible story about Trump White House reportedly threatening Alaska for Murkowski vote. bit.ly/2h4JINK

> Early Wednesday, Trump took to Twitter to express displeasure with Murkowski's vote. By that afternoon, each of Alaska's two Republican senators had received a phone call from Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke letting them know the vote had put Alaska's future with the administration in jeopardy.
> Alaska Sen. Dan Sullivan said the call from Zinke heralded a "troubling message."
> "I'm not going to go into the details, but I fear that the strong economic growth, pro-energy, pro-mining, pro-jobs and personnel from Alaska who are part of those policies are going to stop," Sullivan said.
> "I tried to push back on behalf of all Alaskans. ... We're facing some difficult times and there's a lot of enthusiasm for the policies that Secretary Zinke and the president have been talking about with regard to our economy. But the message was pretty clear," Sullivan said. The Interior secretary also contacted Murkowski, he said.

Yeah, but national discussions still shape local work. I go to small churches a lot. But, when I remind what Scripture says, they affirm.

The whole "skinny repeal" thing is sort of a McConnell scam/mind trick on his own caucus ... but it just might work! 53eig.ht/2v3dB0B

> So ... who knows. Fundamentally, however, McConnell is playing a game of three-card Monte with his caucus. Some members (like Heller) are willing to vote for "skinny repeal" only in order to avoid having to vote for something like AHCA or BCRA, while others (like Rounds) want to vote for "skinny repeal" only because they hope it turns into something like AHCA or BCRA after conference with the House. It might be a neat trick if McConnell pulls it off, but it was never going to be easy.

AARP —citing its 38M members and pledging to report every senator's vote— urges GOP to "reject this flawed bill and this cynical approach."

July 27, 2017

Dear Senator:

AARP, with its nearly 38 million members, writes to express our opposition to the reported McConnell "skinny" repeal bill. The bill will leave millions uninsured, destabilize the health insurance market and lead to spikes in the cost of premiums. The CBO confirms that the provisions of the reported "skinny" repeal bill will lead to 16 million Americans losing their health coverage, including 4 million Americans who will lose employer-sponsored coverage. The result will be higher health care costs and fewer choices for millions of older Americans.

We are concerned that this proposal is intended to put Congress in position to approve a conference agreement on the House-passed American Health Care Act (AHCA), rather than a serious attempt to address the issues needed to improve our health care system. The AHCA would dramatically increase costs for older Americans, cause 23 million Americans to lose their health coverage, weaken Medicare, cut more than $800 billion from Medicaid and threaten access to critical services that help older Americans stay in their homes.

We urge you to reject this flawed bill and this cynical approach. Instead, we urge you to begin work on a bipartisan solution to lower health costs and protect and strengthen the coverage that millions of Americans rely upon. AARP remains ready to work with you to ensure that we maintain a strong health care system that includes robust insurance market protections, controls costs, improves quality, and provides affordable coverage to all Americans.

However, voting for the "skinny" repeal bill in an effort to simply move to a conference on the AHCA – a bill already rejected by a majority of the Senate – will not accomplish these goals. Instead, it will result in a bad final product that will raise costs and reduce coverage, and prevent progress on bipartisan discussions. We therefore urge you to vote NO.

Our members and all Americans 50 years of age and older care deeply about health care and want to know where their elected leaders stand. Therefore, AARP will inform our members and the public how their Senators voted. We will communicate the results

Correct. What they're doing is reckless and dangerous and also non-sensical and will absolutely blow up in their faces politically.

They aren't even trading it for meaningful tax cuts.

They are trading 16 million people's health care for a day of good Fox News coverage.

Constituents won't remember this as a vote to go to conference. They rightly will remember it as a vote for all of this:

- ✓ 15 million more people uninsured
- ✓ 20% higher insurance premiums every year
- ✓ Weakening of protections for preexisting conditions
- ✓ Erosion of coverage for essential health benefits
- ✓ Loss of freedom for women to choose Planned Parenthood
- ✓ Politicians selling out people for the sake of partisanship

Here is McCain's FULL STATEMENT on his NO vote:

STATEMENT BY SENATOR JOHN McCAIN ON VOTING "NO" ON "SKINNY REPEAL"

Washington, D.C. – U.S. Senator John McCain (R-AZ) released the following statement today on voting "no" on the so-called "skinny repeal" of Obamacare:

"From the beginning, I have believed that Obamacare should be repealed and replaced with a solution that increases competition, lowers costs, and improves care for the American people. The so-called 'skinny repeal' amendment the Senate voted on today would not accomplish those goals. While the amendment would have repealed some of Obamacare's most burdensome regulations, it offered no replacement to actually reform our health care system and deliver affordable, quality health care to our citizens. The Speaker's statement that the House would be 'willing' to go to conference does not ease my concern that this shell of a bill could be taken up and passed at any time.

"I've stated time and time again that one of the major failures of Obamacare was that it was rammed through Congress by Democrats on a strict-party line basis without a single Republican vote. We should not make the mistakes of the past that has led to Obamacare's collapse, including in my home state of Arizona where premiums are skyrocketing and health care providers are fleeing the marketplace. We must now return to the correct way of legislating and send the bill back to committee, hold hearings, receive input from both sides of aisle, heed the recommendations of nation's governors, and produce a bill that finally delivers affordable health care for the American people. We must do the hard work our citizens expect of us and deserve."

Needs 60 votes. 1 budget recon per year has been used.

Rampage Dave @DCMcNasty · 55 min

1 budget recon/yr is incorrect, but that's irrelevant since we've used 0 in FY'17. It's just parked on the Calendar right now.

I read that he'd need 60 votes now because they can only try one budget recon per year, and it failed. Was that not correct?

@SenatorCollins @jaketapper Here's the 87 words Congress needs to pass to resolve this CSR payment nonsense. 1/

> SEC. 1. FUNDING FOR COST-SHARING PAYMENTS.
> There is appropriated to the Secretary of Health and Human Services, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, such sums as may be necessary for payments for cost-sharing reductions authorized by the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (including adjustments to any prior obligations for such payments) for the period beginning on the date of enactment of this Act. Payments and other actions for adjustments to any obligations incurred for plan years 2018 and later may be made.

That wording comes DIRECTLY FROM BOTH THE HOUSE & SENATE GOP BILLS. I just lopped off the 2-year cutoff wording at the end. 2/

Vote on this as a standalone bill or, if necessary, attach it to the upcoming CHIP reauthorization, & it'll get unanimous consent from Dems.

Trump, they say, is increasingly acting as his own lawyer, strategist and publicist, often disregarding the recommendations of the professionals he has hired.

"He refuses to sit still," the presidential adviser said. "He doesn't think he's in any legal jeopardy, so he really views this as a political problem he is going to solve by himself."

GEORGE: That does raise another set of questions. Because "The New York Times" is reporting this morning the President's signed off on the initial statement on Saturday on the initial statement from Don Jr. on Saturday, but didn't mention the emails, didn't really go into any great detail on the meeting, in fact, was misleading about the meeting. So the President signed off on that statement. Does he feel he was misled by his son and by Jared Kushner if, indeed, they didn't tell him about these emails that they both received?
JAY SEKULOW: The President didn't sign off on anything. He was coming back from the G-20, the statement that was released on Saturday was released by Donald Trump Jr., and I'm sure in consultation with his lawyers. The President wasn't involved in that.

Eh, it's more that conservatives write things that suggest they shouldn't vote for conservative legislation.

> But then the period of collapse and dysfunction set in, amplified by the internet and our growing sense of alienation from each other, and we lost our way and began to rationalize away our principles in the process. But where does such capitulation take us? If by 2017 the conservative bargain was to go along for the very bumpy ride because with congressional hegemony and the White House we had the numbers to achieve some long-held policy goals—even as we put at risk our institutions and our values—then it was a very real question whether any such policy victories wouldn't be Pyrrhic ones. If this was our Faustian bargain, then it was not worth it. If ultimately our principles were so malleable as to no longer be principles, then what was the point of political victories in the first place?

Susan Collins on how a July 4th parade in a tiny, remote town impacted her.
pressherald.com/2017/07/30/nem …

> Back on July 4, both Collins and King traveled to Washington County to march in Eastport's Independence Day parade. On Friday, both recalled how, from start to finish, it was all health care all the time – punctuated by pleas that they stand fast against the House repeal bill that had landed with a thud in the Senate.
> "Keep in mind that that's a county that went heavily for Donald Trump," noted Collins. "And what I found ■ I walked the length of the parade is that over and over, people were calling out to me, 'Thank you, Susan,' and 'Thank you for opposing the House bill,' and 'Stay strong, Susan,' and coming out and literally hugging me."

Many different ways to many different people. Here's one example.
nytimes.com/2012/07/25/boo...

> In the preface to "Bailout: An Inside Account of How Washington Abandoned Main Street While Rescuing Wall Street," it is April 2010, and after more than a year on the job, Mr. Barofsky is meeting for a clear-the-air drink with one of his nemeses, Herbert Allison, the former head of the financial giants Merrill Lynch, TIAA-CREF and Fannie Mae, who came out of retirement to run the bank-rescue program for the Treasury Department. Mr. Barofsky, wearing an unseasonal wool suit at odds with a "Washington-appropriate wardrobe," is poised to let the hostess seat them at a front table of her choosing, but Mr. Allison insists on a private table in the rear. Then he gets down to business.
> "Have you thought at all about what you'll be doing next?" Mr. Allison asks Mr. Barofsky, soon adding, "Out there in the market, there are consequences for some of the things that you're saying and the way that you're saying them."

This could make a Trump "pivot" really hard. A lot of voters have written him off, so he doesn't have that many potential new supporters.

> Suppose, for instance, that as a result of an attempted pivot — wherein Trump took centrist positions on taxes and a couple of other high-profile issues — voter preferences were scrambled, and half the voters who were formerly in the "somewhat disapprove" category moved to somewhat approving of Trump's performance instead. (Chances are that a lot of these voters would be moderates, who are overrepresented among the "somewhat disapprove" group.[2]) But conversely, half the voters who had somewhat approved of Trump's performance moved to somewhat disapproving of him

Russians discussed "efforts" to work with Manafort in order to coordinate hits on Hillary cnn.com/2017/08/03/pol …

> CNN has learned that investigators became more suspicious when they turned up intercepted communications that US intelligence agencies collected among suspected Russian operatives discussing their efforts to work with Manafort, who served as campaign chairman for three months, to coordinate information that could damage Hillary Clinton's election prospects, the US officials say. The suspected operatives relayed what they claimed were conversations with Manafort, encouraging help from the Russians.

.@conor64 captures the horror of Twitter mobs: theatlantic.com/politics/archi …

> "In the Bad Old Days," the philosopher Derek Parfit once wrote, "each torturer inflicted severe pain on one victim," but now, "each of the thousand torturers presses a button, thereby turning the switch once on each of the thousand instruments. The victims suffer the same severe pain. But none of the torturers makes any victim's pain perceptibly worse." An analogous phenomena plagues efforts to enforce social norms via social media. Each critic scolds a transgressor in ways that seem proportionate and reasonable, as if turning to a stranger at a supermarket and saying, "Excuse me, I heard what you just said, and I really think you got it wrong."
> What few critics fully realize is that thousands of others are doing the same and much worse—that the cumulative effect is a digital equivalent of thousands of people gathering around a transgressor at the supermarket and angrily shouting insults for three hours. If that happened in offline space the mismatch of proportion would seem monstrous; when it occurs in the online space only the

from 73% in February to 59% now. Among whites who do not have college degrees, a core component of Trump's base, just 35% strongly approve, down 12 points since February. At the same time, strong disapproval among Democrats has held steady around 80%.

On top issues, Trump's approval ratings largely tilt negative. And perceptions of the President as someone who will bring change are fading. Just 43% say Trump can "bring the kind of change the country needs," down from 48% in April, and the share who say he "can manage the government effectively" now stands at 39%, down from 44% in

I remember folks telling me Resist wasn't a good theme for the opposition to Trump -- even some allies. But it does seem to have caught on.

The idea that Assange represented progressive values is surely dead by now. He's simply a person who hates our country.

And non Latinos should have their Latino brothers' and sisters' backs and vote out anti immigrant xenophobia

> Joy Reid @JoyAnnReid
> Dear Hispanic non-voters: this is about xenophobic hatred of primarily your families. You have the numbers to stop this. Use them. Vote.

Right because the last eight years did not allow NK to develop these weapons. NK did it in 8 months. Seriously? 8 years ago no nukes, today?

Replying to @neeratanden interesting that no one is much discussing the CBO review of ACA. Mostly good news -- except for the sabotage

This way when it fails, the POTUS owns it.

> Donald J. Trump @realDonaldTrump
> Republicans should just REPEAL failing ObamaCare now & work on a new Healthcare Plan that will start from ■ clean slate. Dems will join in!

They're trying to change history—don't let them. In the chaotic atmosphere of 2020, the Wayback Machine is a crucial resource in the fight against disinformation, and now more than ever we need your help. Right now we're preserving history as it unfolds, keeping track of who's saying what and when—all without charging for access, selling user data, or running ads. Instead, we rely on the generosity of individuals to help us keep the record straight.

Right now, the Internet Archive (which runs this project) has a 2-to-1 Matching Gift Campaign, tripling the impact of every donation. If you find our public record useful, please chip in.

They're trying to change history—don't let them. In the chaotic atmosphere of 2020, the Wayback Machine is a crucial resource in the fight against disinformation, and now more than ever we need your help. Right now we're preserving history as it unfolds, keeping track of who's saying what and when—all without charging for access, selling user data, or running ads. Instead, we rely on the generosity of individuals to help us keep the record straight.

Right now, the Internet Archive (which runs this project) has a 2-to-1 Matching Gift Campaign, tripling the impact of every donation. If you find our public record useful, please chip in.

They're trying to change history—don't let them. In the chaotic atmosphere of 2020, the Wayback Machine is a crucial resource in the fight against disinformation, and now more than ever we need your help. Right now we're preserving history as it unfolds, keeping track of who's saying what and when—all without charging for access, selling user data, or running ads. Instead, we rely on the generosity of individuals to help us keep the record straight.

Right now, the Internet Archive (which runs this project) has a 2-to-1 Matching Gift Campaign, tripling the impact of every donation. If you find our public record useful, please chip in.

They're trying to change history—don't let them. In the chaotic atmosphere of 2020, the Wayback Machine is a crucial resource in the fight against disinformation, and now more than ever we need your help. Right now we're preserving history as it unfolds, keeping track of who's saying what and when—all without charging for access, selling user data, or running ads. Instead, we rely on the generosity of individuals to help us keep the record straight.

Right now, the Internet Archive (which runs this project) has a 2-to-1 Matching Gift Campaign, tripling the impact of every donation. If you find our public record useful, please chip in.

I have an idea. Why don't we let every state keep exchange and Medicaid and call it the America Purchase Act and be done.

Serious question: why does the GOP so hate health care for people? It runs through everything they do.

Chuck Schumer @SenSchumer
It can be a little hard to find, but it's right there in the GOP budget: $473 billion from #Medicare, over a trillion from #Medicaid.

Under present circumstance is Medicare on a track of unchallenged solvency? Why are Medicaid health outcomes analogous to uninsured?

What's fake news about Oregon study? Am I erroneous in understanding of Medicare Trustee projection of solvency to 2029? I'm Open to facts!

Attacking certain Dems for not defending progressive values is called holding politicians accountable. It's what happens in a democracy.

Going on FOX to trash Dems is called "being a tool of the GOP"

RB @rB777ftw · Oct 17
Democratic politicians aren't infallible. It's good for Dems to go on FOX to expose conservative viewers to progressive viewpoints.

Man, that is quite a logic pretzel you've gotten yourself into to rationalize this.

Regina W @regwag2003 · Oct 17
The main problem w this pretzel logic is that they aren't exposing FOX viewers to anything other than Dem bashing

They're trying to change history—don't let them. In the chaotic atmosphere of 2020, the Wayback Machine is a crucial resource in the fight against disinformation, and now more than ever we need your help. Right now we're preserving history as it unfolds, keeping track of who's saying what and when—all without charging for access, selling user data, or running ads. Instead, we rely on the generosity of individuals to help us keep the record straight.

Right now, the Internet Archive (which runs this project) has a 2-to-1 Matching Gift Campaign, tripling the impact of every donation. If you find our public record useful, please chip in.

I could not agree more. This behavior is unacceptable from anyone.

> Claire McCaskill @clairecmc
> Re Al Franken: I'm shocked and concerned. The behavior described is completely unacceptable. Comedy is no excuse for inappropriate conduct, and I believe there should be an ethics investigation.

I agree, but what happened to the outrage over @POTUS @realDonaldTrump ???? If Franken is forced to resign, but trump is not forced to do the same - that's just giving a pass to a guy because he's in the oval. That's just not right.

Exactly. Franken's conduct should be investigated, but Dems needs to play hardball and go after an investigation of Trump's predatory behavior too.

I don't think the country has understood how psychologically wounding it was to so many women that Trump won after the Access Hollywood tape

> Jeff Stein @JStein_Vox
> Fascinating new poll: Women have made 86% of the activists anti-Trump calls to Congress. The resistance is female.

Glad she doesn't take corporate money. My concern is with her position supporting Russian bombing and excusing Assad. Stop w/ misinformation

They're trying to change history—don't let them. In the chaotic atmosphere of 2020, the Wayback Machine is a crucial resource in the fight against disinformation, and now more than ever we need your help. Right now we're preserving history as it unfolds, keeping track of who's saying what and when—all without charging for access, selling user data, or running ads. Instead, we rely on the generosity of individuals to help us keep the record straight.

Right now, the Internet Archive (which runs this project) has a 2-to-1 Matching Gift Campaign, tripling the impact of every donation. If you find our public record useful, please chip in.

Trump sold people on a zero-sum model of econ competition among racial groups. Ppl thought he would rig the economy to help whites & take benefits away from POC. GOP has sold that fantasy over the years. Reality is most Americans (majority white) get screwed by Trump/GOP policies

It actually pains me to say this, but John McCain is being dishonest about this tax bill.

Matt Viser @mviser
Senator John McCain says he will vote in favor of the tax reform bill, giving it significant momentum to passage in the Senate.

The implications of this new monstrosity are far reaching. Military spending will be curtailed and you can forget spending on education, infrastructure, health care, or virtually anything else. We'll be so in debt that the Middle East will simply buy us.

Misleading elitism isn't smart, either. It's disgusting (but really on brand for you). The rich made out like bandits under Obama, who didn't do shit to empower labor or punish Wall Street fraudsters--marginal tax increases not withstanding. You're so transparently full of shit

You know what I'm going to do? Take the anger I feel at this atrocious tax bill and turn it into vengeance for 2018. They will try to distract from this bill. Remind your friends and family what this bill does early and often.

Didn't she say she had a commitment by Trump? Of course he also had a deal with Democrats he reneged on.

Doug Jones is a former prosecutor so he's stronger on crime than an alleged pedophile by a mile, he's strong on veterans, is focused on investing in education and saving children's health. And he's not an alleged child predator.

I think many are looking at this the wrong way. Trump is campaigning for Moore, an alleged child predator, because he has to. Because it's a toss up. If they thought the race was over, he wouldn't be campaigning.

I caucused in CO in 2016. A mother and wheelchair-using father came with their toddlers. The toddlers got too anxious sitting in a crowded, stuffy room after bedtime, so the family ended up having to leave before we voted. Caucuses disenfranchise voters.

I don't think the long lines we witnessed, and I stood in, during the primaries are any better.

In Colorado, we have mail-in ballots for general elections. People have time to look up candidates & don't need a sitter or time off work to vote. And we've got one of the highest turnout rates in the US (except for votes requiring a caucus).

I demand an apology for the 10,000 times @realDonaldTrump has lied and misled the country. Retweet if you think he should apologize.

The GOP is going to wake up panicked and realize the tax bill is an anchor not a lifesaver. And the wall will start to crack.

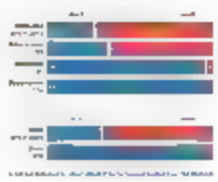
Gotta say that this is pretty unbelievable. In 2016, when African Americans could see the damage Trump would do, @SusanSarandon campaigned for Jill Stein and attacked Hillary. She helped build the Trump victory that has hurt so many.



Susan Sarandon @SusanSarandon
Thank you African Americans in Alabama who organized and fought their way to the polls despite so much voter suppression. Thank you Selma once again. Respect.

I respect you so much, Neera. You are a beacon on the talk news shows. However, Susan S. Has her right to campaign for whom she wants to campaign for. Yes, we would be better as a country with HRC instead of DT, but the country needed this awakening to bring us all together.

Thank you for your kind words. But families are being broken up because parents who've been here for decades are getting deported. I resent people who cheer for this "awakening".

That isn't accurate. They passed the Senate tax bill 51-49. Losing Collins means they're at 50-50, which means Mitch doesn't care about her as he can pass it w/Pence. We need to focus on loosening up other GOPers.

It's a little pathetic @ggreenwald won't tag me when he attacks me. Maybe he's worried I will point the obvious difference between him and me- when I go on Fox, I attack the right wing, I don't agree with them like he does with Tucker Carlson.

Dem share of the white vote across the country will be in the mid-40% range. In the midwest, it will be at 47%. Dems will sweep the midwest next year.

I can see this happening.

Blank Slate @blankslate2017 · 13h
This is why I think predictions on how many seats Dems will win are underestimating the wave. At a mid-40s level of white support, Dems can win the House even at D+5.

He was only in his early 30s. How could he possibly know right from wrong? In his 30s?

(Reminds me of Henry Hyde's 'youthful indiscretion' with a married woman when he was 45.)

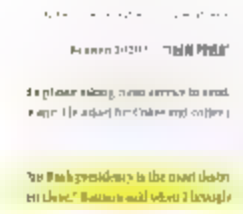
It's weird how Glenn continually attacks the Resistance, whose iconic heroes are actually the people flooding the streets during the women's march to the people flooding town halls to save Health care. Why does he hate on the Resistance to Trump? Anyone's guess.



Glenn Greenwald @ggreenwald
2017 dissonance: So many #Resistance heroes are Bush 43 officials: Bush NSA & CIA Director (Hayden); Bush FBI Director (Mueller); Bush DOJ official (Comey); Bush speechwriter (Frum); Bush/Iraq War pundit (Kristol); Bush

No, Neera. People in the street don't lionize David Frum & Mike Hayden. I'm talking about the DC operatives - including ones funded by foreign tyrants - who keep proclaiming themselves to be the "leaders" of the #Resistance, all the while commoditizing it for their own benefit.

This is what happens when your press shop only reads the headline. You promote an article which calls on you to retire.

I agree with @evepeyser that the Vanity Fair video is not a major scandal. It is just dumb. And mean. What is a major scandal is the rampant sexism and misogyny at Vice.

> eve peyser @evepeyser
> The notion that Vanity Fair's video of New Years resolutions for Hillary Clinton is a "major scandal" proves how toxic social media is twitter.com/tomwatson/stat...

Maybe not a scandal, but it's significant in its meanness and smallness. And it has to say something that the media so easily targets the most admired woman in the world; over and over again.

Maybe, just maybe, if the Dems would have a chance to win an election if they come up with a program that would help the working class instead of smearing anyone who rightfully dislikes HRC as a misogynist or Russian spy.

I honestly thought this was satire. Maybe Huckabee forgot that Trump asked Russia to attack his political opponent. Churchill would have totally done that.

> Gov. Mike Huckabee @GovMikeHuckabee
> Churchill was hated by his own party, opposition party, and press. Feared by King as reckless, and despised for his bluntness. But unlike Neville Chamberlain, he didn't retreat. We had a Chamberlain for 8 yrs; in @realDonaldTrump we have a Churchill.

Neera, Neera, Neera. First of all Mike Huckabee is pretty stupid, not to mention sanctimonious and he thinks he's funny. He blocked me when I questioned his parenting abilities. Apparently dog murderers and shameless liars are within his purview of good parenting.

And when NBC's @PeterAlexander challenged Trump's false claim about Obama not contacting families of deceased soldiers, Trump backed down and admitted, "I don't know if he did."

In short: 1) Respectfully challenging is a basic tenet of interviewing; 2) I don't think this should change for Trump; 3) I don't think there's evidence that doing so derails an interview; 4) Even if it gets derailed, I don't think there's a ton of current value in Trump rambles.

Of course not. If I wanted an interview with Hillary Clinton I would use someone close to her — like, say, Neera Tanden. Journalism 101.

If you did an interview like this & you'd been outlet reporter at NYT for Russia investigation into Trump/Dems leaked to you; then I publicly said you're picked for how fair you are to Hillary, I think it'd raise red flags.We can see this differently but not sure right to dismiss

The times will never ever apologize. It would cause a chain reaction of introspection that they culturally cannot handle. Let's start with teaming up with Breitbart to publish "scoop" on Hillary Clinton that turned out to be entirely fiction!

I honestly do not understand why The Times has never discussed this or its email/Comey coverage. Humans are fallible. People get things wrong. Just admit it and move on. The refusal to ever admit any error creates distrust with readers. In other words, what @NateSilver538 said.

2017 wasn't an easy year, but what I'm most thankful for is the ordinary people in every corner of this country who did things they've never done before: flooded town halls and airports, called their member of Congress, voted in off-year elections.They will take the country back.
